To Whom It May Concern

Reference for: Antje Matthäus

Antje Matthäus has worked as a freelance translator for AJT since 2016.

AJT are translation and localisation specialists for the European market. We offer a range of professional language services to our business clients, including translation, transcreation, copywriting, multilingual social media management, desktop publishing (DTP) and international SEO. From fashion brands in Austria to industrial manufacturers in the UK, we help businesses communicate successfully with their international audiences.

Ms. Matthäus has provided translation, editing, and machine translation postediting services for us, mainly in the fields of software localisation and marketing for various clients in the digital services industry, in sum approximately 170,000 words.

She is a competent and reliable translator who delivers on time. When she started with us, she quickly familiarised herself with the Smartling platform and our workflows. In a longer-term project for a major client (Slack) she was praised by their linguistic advisor for her precise and elegant translations. We value her open and candid communication and would like to continue working with her.

Yours faithfully,

Anja Jones
Managing Director
